
Hello!

Posted by tirish - 2008/01/24 15:14

Hi, my name is Tom Irish, web developer and music coordinator for The Vermont Rally. Some people also know me as "Ziggy Jagger". Please register and introduce yourself!

This site launched on January 25, and it will continue to be a work in progress. Bear with us as we get accustomed to the technology. Certain features may come and go, but we'll be updating information as soon as it is available. In the coming weeks, expect the site to blossom with information about The Vermont Rally! If you're in the Rutland region, and would like to participate, let us know!

Hello Everyone.

My name is Dirk Nakazawa and I'd like to say, "hello"! The Vermont Rally is all about building community and sharing hands in building and event that truly becomes a, "by the people, for the people" type of reality. Tom Irish has really stepped up to the plate to do his share. It is this kind of grass roots effort that is allowing this event to grow a TRULY GREEN WAY!

Thanks to all the others who have and are stepping up. We are all excited to welcome newcomers!

Dirk

Looking forward to supporting the Vermont Rally. Vermont needs a rally that is geared to bikers and not into it for the money. I hope that we can do this for many many more years to come. As the State Captain for The Vermont PGR I am sure that the PGR membership will also support the rally.

Vermont has many great Clubs, Assn's. and Groups who will support the rally.

Thanks for the message - it's great to see the support we're seeing for this and we're excited to be working with the local and broader communities that are interested in making this a successful event :-). I'll make sure to point some others to your post. My end of this is the web and entertainment!

Thanks again,

Tom

Looking forward to visiting the Rally down at the fairgrounds. Since I live in the city it's a no-brainer to ride down and check it out! The weekend between Americade and Laconia is perfect for those riders passing through to stop and have a taste of Vermont hospitality. Hope the future is bright for the VR!

My friend Thunder is a great guy. Missed him at Vermont Thunder this past weekend but he was down in D.C. doing the "BIG" ride.

Be seeing you guys there.

p.s. ya really need to fix this forum software... all those red X's really gotta go (or is it just me and my Vista machine?)

Hey SilverChrome.

Good to hear from you. We are super excited in how the Rally has come together! Everyone should have a great time.

Yes, I too get the red "X's" and we'll look into what that is all about.

Great idea you have here.

As a racer and a sportbike enthusiast who has started a bike night in the Burlington area I was wondering what has been done to attract the sportbike community?

I would be happy to help get the word out and or help organize more sport bike oriented activities to help broaden the appeal.

Hi Doc,

Sorry I'm late here, but I'd pulled down the forum a few months after site launch - not sure how you found it as I'd pulled the link (but did leave the software behind). I've decided to put it back up...

Thanks for your message - hope you made it to and enjoyed yourself at the Vermont Rally! :-)

Sport Bikes

Posted by Dirk - 2008/06/09 20:22

My apologies for not getting back to you sooner. It got super hectic before the event.

We had a great time and super events - sportbike stunt shows throughout the weekend, freestyle motorcross shows including full back flips, a poker tournament and more.

We are excited for 2009 and would love to get you in on making this a super sportbike friendly event!

With the emphasis of a sport bike being on speed, acceleration, deceleration, and maneuverability, there are certain design elements that most motorcycles of this type will share. Sport bikes have comparatively high performance engines resting inside a lightweight frame. The combination of these help maintain structural integrity and chassis rigidity.

Even at my more "advanced" age and I was present with one, I would enjoy it (LOL)!!
